The Eastern Continental Divide splits West Virginia’s watersheds into two major drainage basins. Water on the eastern side of the divide flows into the Chesapeake Bay, while water on the western side flows into the Gulf of Mexico via the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers.